Description

She's in superb condition! With one owner since new! A unique boat. maintained in a marvellous condition, with around 1000 hours on engines. Her cruising speed is at 26 kn @ 2.400 rpms. This is an example of British yacht crafting, spacious and super strong construction. Colvic is a well-regarded British boat manufacturer with a legacy dating back to the 1960s. Based in Essex, England, the company has built a strong reputation over decades for producing high-quality, durable vessels. Initially focused on crafting fiberglass hulls for other builders, Colvic later expanded to design and construct their own boats, including motor yachts, sailing yachts, and commercial vessels. They're especially known for their robust, "overbuilt" construction, which prioritizes strength and longevity—perfect for both leisure boaters and professional mariners. The 1996 Sunquest 44 is a great example of their work, showcasing Colvic's signature blend of sturdy design, practical layouts, and traditional British craftsmanship that ensures reliability and comfort on the water.
